CAPTIVE REDSKINS.

The War Element On the Way to Florida

Attempts to Rob Miles of the Credit of his Campaign.

Democrats Nominate their Ticket in Wisconsin.

Geronimo's Capture

LEAVENWORTH, N. M., September 15.—The Herald will publish the following to-morrow: The statements published in press dispatches to-day concerning the surrender of Geronimo and detracting from the merits of the campaign has elicited indignation among all the troops in this section, who feel that it is an effort to deprive gallant officers and men of the fruits of their victory, and that they are inspired by envious critics in Washington and elsewhere. At the same time people in this community who know all the facts appreciate the great final success of the campaign as much as they have regretted past fruitless efforts of others to secure an honorable peace. Those who know say that Geronimo and his band were never captured or disarmed until Miles landed them last night at Fort Bowie as prisoners of war and upon the agreement that Geronimo would have surrendered upon conditions before the recent arrival of military commanders in this department. It has become as the other statement is, wholly false that the Indians escaped after being captured and turned over to civil authorities. General Crook's Military men say that the campaign was a necessity to bring the Indians to a successful termination. The campaign lasted only four days and Geronimo only gave up when he was surrounded and hopeless. He surrendered to Lieutenant Gatewood in the field and General Miles only told him that army officers never kill prisoners of war, that they must lay down their arms and do what he said, trusting to the justice to the president.

Apaches for Florida

WASHINGTON, September 15.—To-day a train of freight cars came from the south bearing the Chiricahua and Warm Spring Apaches from the San Carlos reservation in Arizona to Florida. There were 400 of the savages, guarded by three companies of United States cavalry. Although none of them have been on the war path since Geronimo broke loose it is understood they were furnishing him with ammunition, and there was quite a little fear at the moment they might be given out. For this reason the government decided to ship them to Florida where they could do no harm. More than half the Indians are squaws and children, and a more repulsive and miserable mass of humanity was never crowded into freight cars before. The car doors were closely guarded by soldiers.

Wisconsin Democrats

MADISON, September 15.—Democrats in convention here to-day renominated Gilbert M. Woodhead for governor, J. D. Putnam for lieutenant governor. The platform supports the principles of the democratic party, supports the present administration and commends the action of the postmaster general in adhering to the Pacific Mail subsidy. Leasing convict labor was condemned, also the practice of allowing vast tracts of public land to fall into the hands of foreign land companies. The ticket, as completed, was as follows: Secretary of state, John C. Ludwig, Milwaukee; treasurer, John A. Johnson, Madison; attorney general, F. W. Bird of Jefferson; state superintendent of schools, Edwin M. Laughlin; railroad commissioner, James Stevens, Point; insurance commissioner, John Kerwin, Kewaunee. W. A. Walker, of Kaukauna, was re-elected chairman of the central committee.

Editors at Durango

DURANGO, September 15.—A Durango special to the Times says: The Press Association of editors and publishers are here and the city has put on its holiday attire. Last evening an informal reception was held at the rooms of the Durango and Pagosa Springs clubs. To-day's programme includes drives and horseback rides through the city, winding up with a grand ball at the skating rink. The Twenty second Infantry band and orchestra are engaged for the occasion. The entertainment is all at the expense of the city and citizens.

Gunnison Nominations

GUNNISON, September 15.—A special to the News from Gunnison says: The republican convention met here to-day. D. Clark Wright was nominated for state senator, and Wright of the Aspen Times and Samuel Walker for representative.

Not Apaches

EL PASO, Texas, September 15.—Reports received here to-day by a responsible party state that Apache Indians [illegible] Sabinal mining district [illegible] Mexico [illegible] Lake Guzman and [illegible] was burned down after the stores contained in it had been [illegible] A large herd of horses belonging to the ranchmen have not been disturbed. This proves conclusively that the marauders were not Indians, for they would have gone after the horses first of all. It is pretty certain that there are no more hostile Apaches on this war path but that they are all in the hands of the military.

The Deserted Husband

ST. LOUIS, September 15.—A special from Waco, Texas, says: Oliver Gathens (colored) was yesterday induced to have his photograph taken and when finished they will be sent to a friend in Chicago who takes an interest in the man, and if Chicago papers should get hold of them Lucy Parsons will look upon the face of her husband whom she deserted in Waco to become the mistress of Albert R. Parsons, the anarchist. Oliver Gathens is a negro and not half color either. He says her romantic story of her mother being an Indian woman and her father a Mexican is false and that she is in reality a mulatto, her mother being a negro and her father a white man. It was Oliver Gathens who first encouraged his wife to read and write romances, and inspired her to rise to high places as was within his power. He soon found out however that Parsons was attracting her attention and alienating her affections. He says he once made up his mind to kill her but thought better of it, not caring to risk his life for such a woman. From that time on it between his wife and her lover became fully developed and they shortly afterwards left Waco. Gathens has remained here ever working and contented man, and has the good will and sympathy of many friends.

A Chinese Complaint

WASHINGTON, September 15.—The secretary of state some time ago transmitted to the treasury department a complaint made by the Chinese minister that certain Chinese females who arrived on San Francisco on the steamer San Pablo were on their landing searched all over their persons by male customs officers at the wharf in the presence of many spectators and that some of them had to take off their outer dress reluctantly by compulsory order. After examination of the facts reply was made by the secretary of state stating that the females were searched by male customs officers in the emperor's absence of the female inspector but that there was no personal search but that the females were compelled to remove from their bodies certain low and unworn overcoats which they wore in addition to their usual raiment for the evident purpose of smuggling it some into the United States. Furthermore their port states that although it was plain from external view that these females had on their bodies large quantities of other unnecessary clothing or other material believed to be smuggled goods, yet the surveyor did not order their persons searched for the reason that there was no inspectress to perform that duty.

No Hope for the Entombed Miners

SCRANTON, Pa., September 15.—The work of boring through the pillar at the coal mine where the coal was so suddenly felt this afternoon for the purpose of ascertaining some thing definite as to the fate of the entombed miners was prosecuted with vigor this morning and the drill was not longer in getting through to the opening beyond. When this was done however, it was found that instead of air rushing in as it had been hoped it would gas came out. As no possible good could be accomplished by further work at this point it was abandoned and work is now progressing at the first point where work was commenced and where the distance to be cut through is somewhat over one hundred feet. About twenty seven feet of this was cut this afternoon and by to morrow if all the distance will have been traversed. The "crop" has practically stopped and the miners are fast losing the nervousness and apprehension which affected them yesterday. There is no hope that the entombed miners are still alive.

Collision of Steamers

NEW YORK, September 15.—The Hudson river steamer Catskill of the Catskill line narrowly escaped being run down on her trip to this city early this morning by the Pennsylvania railroad ferry boat Baltimore. As it was a hole of 30 feet was knocked in her hull below the guard rail on the starboard side of the vessel, and the water rushed in, threatening to sink her. Fortunately the steamer was only a few hundred yards from her pier at the foot of Joy street, and measures were promptly taken to stop the leak, which succeeded in keeping her afloat until she made her berth under a full head of steam. There were at the time more than 100 passengers on board. They were terribly frightened but no one was injured. The damage to the boat is $500.

A Bank Closes

ST. LOUIS, September 15.—Late yesterday afternoon the Howard County bank at Glasgow closed its doors and placed its business in the hands of a trustee for the benefit of its creditors. James P. Lenahan, president of the bank, makes the following statement of the bank's affairs: "The assets of the bank are ample to pay all depositors and stockholders in full. Hard times and extreme difficulty of collecting induced the directors to turn over the business to a trustee who will collect and pay off first depositors and then the stockholders. The assets amount to about $90,000, liabilities do not amount to quite this sum."

A Knock Out

MARLBORO, Mass., September 15.—Henry McGlore of Natick and H. Welch of Ashland fought eight rounds at the Ocean Pier skating rink last night for $200 and the New England feather weight championship. About 200 sporting men were present. Each contestant weighed 123 pounds. Both were well matched. McGlore [illegible] battering ram style, Welch was more agile. McGlore secured the first knock down in the fifth round. In the eighth round he landed a swinging blow on Welch's jaw, knocking him completely out. Welch could not get upon his feet for 25 seconds and the fight was awarded to McGlore.

Cholera in Asia

SAN FRANCISCO, September 15.—The Japan Gazette says the total number of cholera cases throughout the country since its first appearance reached 355,000, of which 87,000 ended fatally. It is believed that the epidemic is now at its [illegible] Seoul Green says the cholera is still raging in that city. According to official returns fatal cases for July this year were 38,000, out of a population of 250,000. On account of the epidemic it is fatally fatal. At Shinshiu, province of Keishodo, 5000, and at Tokai 6000 deaths in one month are reported.

BEYOND THE SEA.

England Said to be Meditating a Coup d'Etat in Egypt.

Turkey Asks an Explanation of the Military Activity.

French at the New Hebrides Accused of Arbitrary Action.

English Activity

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 15.—The British are establishing a coaling station at Thasos on the northeast shore of the island of Thasos. The island is in the Egean sea off the south coast of Roumelia, and belongs in great part to the khedive. The island has however for some time enjoyed certain autonomic privileges. Besides establishing a coaling station at the village of Thasos the British are taking other indications of intentions to govern the whole island. Said Pasha, Turkish minister for foreign affairs, has telegraphed instructions to Rustem Pasha, Turkish ambassador to England to ask Iddlesleigh, British foreign minister, whether or not it is true that England is chartering steamers and making other provisions against contingencies, and if so what are England's reasons for this activity, if it is in the direction in which Turkey has interests.

French at the New Hebrides

MELBOURNE, September 15.—Exciting reports have been received here of arbitrary French action in the New Hebrides. Rev. M. Macdonald, Presbyterian missionary at Havannah Harbor, in a letter to Lieutenant Mart of the British gunboat Swinger, says the French Hebrides company have seized the lands of the native Christian mission, alleging prior title, and that the French commandant threatened the natives with armed force if they resisted. The company also claimed the lands of other British subjects. Macdonald asserts that the French practically exercise a sovereignty over the island. A collision between the native and French is imminent. Threats have been made against Mr. Macdonald and native Christians, and he demands assistance from the English squadron. The premiers of the Australian colonies are about to hold a conference to consider the situation.

A Significant Appointment.

VIENNA, September 15.—Political Correspondence says General Baron Kaulbars, military attache of the Russian embassy at Vienna, was summoned from Galicia while attending the Austrian maneuvers to Brest Litovsk, Poland, by the czar last week, and has been appointed Russian diplomatic agent at Sofia. If so the appointment must be considered significant as General Kaulbars is admittedly the best informed foreigner living concerning military affairs in Austria.

England's Intention

PARIS, September 15.—Republique Francaise publishes a telegram from London which states that "England meditates a grand coup d'etat and will probably proclaim Egypt a British possession." She will, however, adds the Republique Francaise, do nothing until she has a sufficient force at Alexandria.

A Dynamiter's Purpose

LONDON, September 15.—A correspondent writes the Times in response to a resolution of the Limerick branch of the national league expressing sympathy with Daly, the dynamiter, whom the resolution describes as "dying in a British dungeon." The correspondent reminds the Times that when Daly was arrested "there were found in his house in Birmingham letters from Brennan which proved that it was Daly's purpose to obtain admission to the strangers' gallery in the house of commons to throw a bomb on the table during debate. Parnellites, of course, were to receive a caution beforehand to absent themselves on the occasion." "If," continues the correspondent, "Daly's purpose had been successfully carried out every leading statesman in the house of commons on both sides, including Gladstone would have been killed."

Cholera in Austria.

LONDON, September 15.—Cholera is raging around Fiumi Austria. It is worst at the village near Agram. Of nine hundred inhabitants of the village, ninety have been stricken down and about twenty eight of them died almost immediately. People distrust the doctors and conceal the sick as long as possible. Doctors are frequently stoned in the streets. In one house a mother and daughter were found half naked on the bare floor writhing in the agony of death, and in another room lay the body of the father upon which had been thrown the corpse of his son. The villagers are too much frightened to help one another.

Dilke's New Career

LONDON, September 15.—Sir Charles Dilke has returned to London and has already announced that he will re-enter public life as the editor and proprietor of a London daily newspaper.

The Pall Mall Gazette is indignant at Sir Charles Dilke's hardihood, and publishes an article calling upon the queen to vindicate the purity of English honor and the sanctity of the judicial oath and remove Sir Charles Dilke's name from the roll of the privy council."

Churchill's Reply

LONDON, September 15.—Lord Randolph Churchill replying to deputations of the Scottish Protestant alliance, who recently severely criticized his answer to their remonstrance against the appointment of Matthews, Roman Catholic, to be home secretary, He says he must decline to enter the field of polemic theology in regard to the position of Catholics in a Protestant state. He adds that if the views of the alliance were pushed to their logical conclusion they would involve the repeal of all those acts of parliament removing political disabilities of Catholics and re-enactment of penal laws which a majority of the British people are anxious to forget.

Justin McCarthy Hopeful

LYDFMOOR, September 15.—Justin McCarthy delivered a farewell lecture here to-night on the eve of his departure for America. There was a large attendance. McCarthy had for his subject "The Irish subject to-day." He said the cause of Ireland had of late made remarkable strides. Parnell had opened up an entirely new chapter in the history of Irish struggle for legislative independence. [Cheers.] Success was within sight. It was hardly a question of years but rather a question of months. The most eloquent of English orators, the most gifted of English statesmen, Gladstone, was now leader of the home rule cause, and behind him was the great English democratic party. Only some strange unparalleled fatal mistake by the Irish party could prevent success and please heaven they would not make such a mistake. [Applause.] The test of a true Irishman let, said Mr. McCarthy, is he a home ruler? Irishmen," he continued, "did not ask to dissolve partnership with Great Britain. They only insisted upon their right of governing themselves. Irishmen were tired and sick of being enemies of England, especially as English friends had so suddenly and nobly risen to do their duty toward Ireland. [Applause.] He was not going to America on a political mission. He had heard however, that educated Americans did not believe in home rule and he would try to find them out. He hoped to return in time to take part in the great struggle which would begin in the next session of parliament and which would lead to complete and consummate success of the Irish cause. [Applause.] Theirs was the cause of civilization, enlightment, progress and humanity and in God's providence it would not possibly fail to meet with success. At the close of his speech Mr. McCarthy was loudly applauded.

France and Spain

MADRID, September 15.—A telegram from Eloboyer on the west coast of Africa reports conflicts between Spaniards and Frenchmen owing to the hoisting of a French flag alongside of the Spanish flag on some of the west coast territory. According to latest advices natives on the left bank of Muni river opposite Fernandopo hoisted a Spanish flag and a Spanish gunboat was sent to protect it. Authorities of the French colony of Gabon thereupon also dispatched a gunboat to the spot, the captain having instructions to claim the Muni country as French territory. The two gunboats met. The Frenchmen wanted to hoist the French flag but the Spaniards announced that they would fight before they would allow the French colors to be raised. The Frenchmen then made a formal protest against the action of the Spaniards.

In the Commons

LONDON, September 15.—It is now understood after further talk on appropriations for the Irish constabulary the Parnellites will cease their exhausting efforts in the debate and that the remaining appropriations will be rapidly passed. It is expected the discussion of the supply bill will be finished on Saturday night and that Parnell's land bill will be discussed on Monday and division be taken at a late hour Tuesday. Parliament will probably be prorogued a week from Saturday.

The Italian Tanner

LONDON, September 15.—Succi, the Italian faster at Milan, will not divulge the secret of his African herb liquor, as he intends to take out a patent for it and expects to realize a few million francs profits from its sale. He claims the liquor will become a staple drink among the poor. He says it will be sold cheap, so that a large family may subsist a week on a franc's worth of liquor. Succi is visited daily by dukes, princes, senators, deputies and hosts of foreign doctors. His strength is unimpaired.

Collapse of a Bridge

VIENNA, September 15.—A suspension bridge over Ostrawitza river in the town of Ostrau, in Moravia, collapsed to day while a squadron of Uhlans were riding across. The Uhlans and a number of spectators who were on the bridge watching the soldiers were all precipitated into the river. Seven persons were instantly killed and many seriously injured. All the injured were recovered from the river.

The Coffee Market

NEW YORK, September 15.—There has not been much excitement at the coffee exchange up to this hour. The market, however, presents a very strong appearance, and trading was fairly active. Cable advices from Havre report an advance of ¼ of a franc, and this together with good buying orders are the main causes for the advance. Prices are up 10 to 15 points with sales.

A Fire Disaster

DES MOINES, September 15.—A fire at Brooklyn this forenoon destroyed half the business portion of the town, including the Chronicle printing office, several stores, offices and shops. The total loss is estimated at $100,000. The fire originated in Holmes' grain elevator near the railroad and is supposed to have been set on fire by sparks from a passing engine.

Tilden's Will

WHITE PLAINS, New York, September 15.—Probate of the will of Samuel J. Tilden, set down for to day, adjourned for one week. Adjournment was in consequence of the absence of Mrs. Carolina B. Whettlesey, who resides in Wisconsin. She is one of the heirs and must be present or be represented by counsel.

Mexico's Holiday

CITY OF MEXICO, September 15.—The city is filled with visitors to participate in the celebration of the national independence day tomorrow, this being the anniversary of the birth of President Diaz.

Emperor William Ill

STRASBURG, September 15.—Emperor William was unable to attend the German military maneuvers here to day. He was compelled by [illegible] to remain at home.

A Steamer Sunk.

LONDON, September 15.—A collision occurred in the river Clyde between the British steamers Strath Marla and Clan Graham, and the former vessel was sunk.

Ex United States Marshal W A Smith is reporting about the state that the El Paso county delegation to the state convention is to be divided between him and Mr Sagendorf for secretary of state. Mr Smith is a very sanguine politician The matter was submitted to a conference of leading republicans of the county and the vote stood four to thirty four in favor of Mr Sagendorf, and so far as we can find Mr Smith had his entire strength in this county at that conference. There is no question but that the delegation will be solid for Mr Sagendorf

A French newspaper asserts that England is meditating a coup d'etat, by which she will take possession of Egypt. It is evident that she has serious business on hand, the nature of which is withheld from the public. The principal diplomatists have been called from foreign posts to give their advice Troops and ships are being put into the most efficient condition All this might have been done on account of the Bulgarian affair but continued military activity now makes another explanation necessary The Egyptian story is a plausible one The possession of Egypt would make the protection of India much easier Turkey suspects that her interests are threatened and has asked the British to elucidate what the fuss is all about, which may bring out some of the true inwardness of the move.

The sale of seats for the Madison Square entertainment which opened yesterday would have appeared fair for any ordinary attraction but was disappointing when the sterling qualities of this company are considered The Madison Square companies have good reason to expect liberal patronage in this place and have never disappointed their patrons In this case an attractive play will be presented and the members of the cast have a national reputation for superiority in their particular lines An organization so deservedly popular is certain to furnish an evening of more than ordinary entertainment

When Oliver Wendell Holmes returned from his lionization in England the other day a small army of newspaper reporters were waiting to interview him, but he adroitly gave them the slip His aversion to the skirmishers for the press is due to a peculiar circumstance, which happened some years ago and which got the central point in every Side There was some notable gathering at which Dr Holmes read an original poem, which had never been published in printer's ink An expert short hand man in the employ of a Boston paper was present at the meeting and reported every word said including the poem, which came out in the next issue of the paper The stenographer a day or two later received a curt letter from Dr Holmes in which "the autocrat of the breakfast table" remarked that while he commended the reporter's zeal he did not thank him for publishing the poem as he had been offered $100 for it by the publishers of the Atlantic monthly

There is good ground for believing that England and Germany are approaching the position of the United States on the currency question The influences forcing England from her gold mono-metallism are referred to by the Chicago Tribune in the following

A year ago, in considering the remarkable decrease in the gold supply of the world and its effect on the leading commercial nations, the Tribune predicted that England would be compelled to abandon her position of conservative, if not stupid, indifference, but it hardly anticipated so great and sudden a change as has recently taken place in British sentiment—a change which bids fair to make England a pronounced advocate of bi metallism The commission recently sent up to inquire into the relations of currency to trade and commerce, although not composed of bi metallists, has been formed evidently for a thorough and impartial investigation, and is satisfactory to men like Grenfell and Gibbs It is particularly significant that Mr Barbour, the Indian finance department secretary, has been summoned to England to sit on this commission The government of India is in a condition which some observers think threatens future bankruptcy India is on a silver basis but its debt is held in England and the interest being payable in gold every increase in the value of the cheaper metal calls for heavier remittances twelve or more rupees now being required where ten sufficed formerly Thus the Indian government and the official salaried class are heavy losers, but the Indian farmers and manufacturers have cheap money to use in production and free access to the dear market of gold standard England They sell as much and buy as little as possible in England Gold monometallism in England is oppressing the government of India but bonusing the farmers and manufacturers of that country to the injury of Great Britain's interests It is an ugly, double faced problem, and England has been compelled to take it up sooner than her bond and mortgage holding classes desired

A Big Game of Poker

Washington Bottler

There is a story in circulation of a game of poker which rather discounts the tough poker yarns which from time to time appear in the papers of the west A number of gentlemen were sitting on the piazza in front of the Ebbitt house, when the subject of poker came up Stories of several games were told and laughed over when a gentleman who had not said a great deal up to that time remarked Well, boys, your stories of big games are good enough but I set in a game one time where the pot was worth playing for! Particulars were asked for and the narrator went on It was in 1865 soon after the close of the war I was with Sherman's army and we were all there in the game. There were six or seven of us at Atlanta and a game of poker was proposed The ante was $1 000 and the limit at $5 000 000, and the play was lively, I tell you We played from 10 in the morning until after midnight, and a pot was seldom opened with less than $500 000 in it. In one hand the betting got quite lively, and [illegible] the winner asked [illegible] the [illegible] and admiration for the [illegible] [illegible] but it is [illegible] truth every word [illegible] stopped for a moment and when other [illegible] required, "What kind of money were you playing for?" Well" he answered "that was the trouble It was as I said, right after the war Confederate money was plentiful and we used it for chips to light our cigars with The pile in that pot was all in confederate [illegible] and bonds and I guess [illegible] didn't think it was worth while to carry it away with him

The Old Ball Player and His Son

[illegible] was a celebrated base ballist when [illegible] years ago. Both hands are crippled and he has some sixteen different kinds of rheumatism, so he doesn't go out to see a game very often now, but there is a spark of the old fire left in him yet.

The other day he learned that his youngest son Johnny, had played hookey from school, and, whip in hand, he awaited the lad's return to administer salutary chastisement. At length he caught him slipping warily into the back yard, accompanied by a base ball club in her chain hole.

'Aha,' said Plunkins, trying to get a firmer grip on the raw hide with his stiffened fingers, 'been running away from school, have you? Don't want to let the school master teach your young idea how to get themselves off properly, eh? As the twig is bent the tree's inclined. But you're bent on foolin' away your time, I see, and you ain't inclined to study. But if you don't want to be taught at school (still tighten his hand as he grabs him by the collar) I'll teach you.'

Johnny began to whimper and moan, 'Can't have any fun.'

'Fun?' roared his father, 'what d'ye call fun?' and he raised his whip to strike.

'I was playin' base ball,' sobbed Johnny.

'Base ball,' said Plunkins, suspending his arm in the air, 'where did you learn to play base ball?'

'Of I knowed ever so long ago.'

'And you being training?' The arm dropped to his side.

'Yes, the Daisy cutters.' 'And I'd been playin' the Hub Lows of Harlem.'

'But it's wrong to run away from school, Johnny. Couldn't you have put in a sub?'

'Nary sub,' said Johnny, emboldened by seeing his father sit down on the sawbuck, and the rawhide lying at his feet. 'I'm short stop. You see it was just this way.
